A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 6. Claims1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US Patent 6,321,983 Katayanagi et al. Method for managing Life Cycles and System for the same. Hereinafter referred to as Katayanagi.

Response to Arguments

17. Applicant's arguments filed November 2, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Application/Control Number: 09/756,427

Art Unit: 3629

- In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., guarantee card component) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).
- 19. Applicant fails to claim the limitations in which they are arguing. Applicant argues that the prior art teaches the use of external databases. However, applicants claims to not preclude the use of external databases. The claim identifies certain information stored in device but also control information stored in a "control information ldentification/storage means." This can be interpreted to be information stored on a network storage device. Which applicant points out on page 2 of their arguments that Katayanagi reads "certain information from the device" and gains access to additional information from a networked database.
